

VOLIVA TELLS OF BANKRUPTCY

Says That Five Million Dollars Has Disappeared From The Zion City Banks.

PEOPLE WERE NEAR STARVATION

Testifies In This Manner To Show Why He Acted As He Did In Turning Alexander Dowie Out Of Office.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, Ill., June 20.—Wilbur G. Voliva, the present head of Zion City, was on the stand this morning in the suit brought by John Alexander Dowie to recover his vested rights in the affairs of the corporation he founded. From Voliva's statement under oath, affairs in Zion are at a low ebb.

His Testimony.
Voliva is testifying to show that he is the rightful manager of Zion City and that his action in turning out Dowie was perfectly consistent with the conditions that existed when he assumed charge of the business of the city with Dowie's power of attorney. His chief bit of testimony was that when he arrived Zion City was nearly bankrupt.

The Statement.
"When I assumed control of Zion City and its bank and business, I found that the bank had deposits amounting to a half million but not a dollar in the bank to pay any of it. I found that over two million dollars had been diverted to other purposes and that the losses on the operation of different industries up to that time amounted to over two million and a half and that many people were on the verge of starvation."

IN CANADA TOBACCO IS REPLACING BEETS

Refinery Recently Moved and Producers of Kent and Essex Counties Have Changed Crops.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, D. C., June 19.—The farmers of Kent and Essex counties, Canada, are this year planting more tobacco than ever before in the history of tobacco raising in that section. The information coming from Consul George N. Pitt, at Chatham, He says this is due to several causes. The crop last year was very profitable. Many farmers who last season raised sugar beets for the Marquette City, Michigan, sugar factory, but who lost that market with the failure of the sugar company, are planting tobacco instead of beets. The government recently announced the establishment of an experimental tobacco farm in Essex and this has stimulated interest in tobacco growing. The growers themselves have been carrying on experimental operations, for years and believe themselves able to grow better tobacco this year than ever before.

Accompanying Mr. Pitt's report are some statistics showing the value of the tobacco crop of Kent and Essex counties for 1905 to be $104 an acre, or a total of $886,400 for a total production of 3,580,000 pounds from 6,600 acres. The average yield was 1300 pounds to the acre and the average price was about eight cents per pound. He says the native leaf has obtained a ready sale to Canadian manufacturers.

The fire and police commission of Kenosha has decided to add three new men to the Kenosha police force and the force is to be reorganized. J. C. Newhouse, who has been on the force for more than twenty years, will be appointed assistant chief, and Joseph Bionemann has been named as desk sergeant.

How about that phonograph? Still think you'd like to trade it for a roll-top desk? Say so in a want ad.

Novia Scotia Election.
Halifax, N. S., June 19.—There is little doubt that the Liberal party, which has held power continuously in Nova Scotia since 1882, will receive a sweeping majority at today's elections. O'DEA MADE CHANGE IN VARSITY BOAT Varsity Crew is Weakened by Retirement of Hine, But Substitution of Rochter and Bechem Adds New Strength.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 20.—With the college boat races only three days distant, Coach O'Dea gave the Wisconsin varsity crew a shuffling up today. Johnson was taken out of No. 2 seat, and Rochter, a substitute, was put in his place.

Hine, No. 7, who strained a ligament in his shoulder while rowing yesterday, has had to retire permanently from the crew. Wilder has been moved down to his seat from No. 3, and Bechem, a substitute, has been put in No. 8. O'Dea says that the change from Johnson to Rochter is an improvement, but that the loss of Hine materially weakens the crew. Hine was one of the strongest men in the boat, and pulled the important oar of No. 7, stroking one side of the eight.

Wisconsin stock, which was rather high, went down several notches after this change was announced. The crew rowed in the new order last evening, but did not make a time trial. Just as O'Dea's crew reached the lower end of the course the Pennsylvania varsity came down beside them, going the four miles for a time trial. The Quakers were keeping in the wake of O'Dea's training launch to avoid his swells, and when the launch suddenly swerved to the right the Pennsylvania just missed striking it by a few feet.

Columbia, Cornell, Syracuse and Georgetown also went over, the course, but no time was given out.

The twenty-second annual reunion of the Wisconsin Old Settlers' association will be held at Palmyra Thursday, June 21. Short Charles Bishop of Des Moines, Ia., James A. Sheridan of Milwaukee, and Judge George Grimm of Jefferson.

COLD WEATHER FOR THIS TIME OF YEARWeekly Weather Bulletin For the Wisconsin Section From U. S.

Agricultural Department.

The past week was noticeable for its very cool weather during this season of the year. There was an abundant of sunshine but very little precipitation except in parts of theeastern portion. The week opened clear and cool. There were lightfrosts on the lowlands during Monday morning and heavy to killing frosts on the low-lands during Tuesday morning. The frosts on Tuesday morning were es-pecially severe in the northern part of the state, where some injury was caused to vegetation in the more exposed places. By Wednesday the weather had become slightly warmerand continued clear and generally pleasant. The temperature rosegradually from Wednesday morning until the end of the week. DuringWednesday night the weather became cloudy in the southern portion of thestate, and showers occurred in this section early Thursday morning. The eastern half of the state was generally cloudy during Thursday and there were some severe local thun-derstorms in the east-central section.

Occasional showers continued alongthe Lake Michigan shore during the early evening, while the weather wasfair in the western part of the state during the entire day. Friday wasrather cool in the eastern portion but the temperature rose in the western portion and became about seasonable by Friday afternoon. Saturday and Sunday were two clear and verypleasant days in all sections of the state with moderate temperatures.The mean temperature for the week varied from 65 degrees in the ex-treme west-central portion of the state to 50 degrees in the northeast-ern portion. It was from 7 degrees to 9 degrees below the "seasonableaverage" in the eastern and southern sections, and about normal in thenorthwestern quarter of the state.

The precipitation was heaviest, beingover one inch at Green Bay, in the east-central portion, and was lightestin the extreme northwestern portion, where very little precipitation occurred during the week.

MISS WINIFRED JUNE MORGAN OF Oakland, California, a Master of the Violin.Members of the Mississippi Golf club who failed to attend the weekly clubdance last evening missed a rare musical treat. Miss Winifred June Mor-gan of Oakland, California, a cousin of Mrs. Wilson Lane, not only played on the violin, but sang and rendered several selections on the piano in accompany to Roy Carter who sang three times. Miss Morgan is a charming young woman of much talent and great promise and is on her way to Prague, Hungary, where she will study for a year and spend a second year in Berlin, Paris and London. Her selections last evening were most charming and she captivated those who were present by her willingness to respond to repeated en-cores. Among her selections were Tschakovsky's "Song Without

Words," Guy DeHardelot's "Beauce,"

Concert Mairika by Ovide Musin,

Humoresque by Dvorak, "When Love is Gone" by Ed. Hopkins, a friend of Miss Morgan's whose manuscript has never been published. "Serenade" by Druha and a song to which she played her own accompaniment, by

Teresa del Riego. Miss Morgan's voice is a mezzo soprano and her enunciation was most perfect. Every word being clear and distinct, and each note perfectly rounded. On request Miss Morgan again sang "O Dry

Those Tears," to which she played her own accompaniment, a rare accomplishment not seldom witnessed.

Miss Morgan is a college girl and has acted as musical critic on San Francisco and Oakland papers for two years. Her two years in Europe will be devoted to perfecting her voice and violin and she has promised to return to Janesville at the completion to give a concert. Miss

...FORTY YEARS AGO...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Wednesday, June 20, 1866.—The Bower City.—The Bower City never looked better than at present during this beautiful weather. The country around it with its flourishing wheat fields and undulating verdure gives a cheering idea of an earthly Eden. The city with its stores, enterprising men and fair ladies, realizes the best idea of a thriving go-ahead Western City. All these advantages are duly noted and admired by the editorial fraternity present and the opinion is general that our city can be greatly praised without being in the least flattered.

Sociable.—The Sociable of All Souls' church will be held tomorrow night at the residence of Mr. Levi Aiden.

Railroad Accident.—At 8 o'clock last evening a freight train on the Northwestern road met with a destructive accident. It was coming North on the Northwestern road between Belvidere and Watertown, when the locomotive came in contact with an ox. The locomotive and eight cars heavily loaded with grain and flour, after tearing the track up for a quarter of a mile, were badly smashed. The locomotive rolling into a ditch. The engineer and fireman narrowly escaped death and but little was left of the ox. The accident delayed traffic on the road for about two hours.

Rim Away—Serious Accident.—Last evening the horse to Mr. H. L. Smith attached to his family carriage, took fright and ran away, upsetting the vehicle. The occupants Mrs. H. L. Smith, Mrs. W. G. Roberts, the eldest son of Mr. Smith and the driver were thrown violently to the ground. Mrs. Smith received a very severe bruise on the face, fracturing one of the nasal bones and she was otherwise injured, but it is hoped not seriously. Mrs. Roberts received a severe cut over the right eye, besides sustaining other injuries about the face. She is considerably bruised on other portions of her person and is of course suffering from the effects of the fall, but it is hoped will get along well. The other occupants of the carriage escaped with slight hurts. The escape from fatal injury in this case heavily loaded with grain and flour, after tearing the track up for a quarter of a mile, were badly smashed. The locomotive rolling into a ditch. The engineer and fireman narrowly escaped death and but little was left of the ox. The accident delayed traffic on the road for about two hours.

FINED FOR VIOLATING LAW

HARVESTER CONCERN TO PAY ARKANSAS $20,000.

Admits Breaking Anti-Trust Statute of State—Proceeding Brought to a Close.

Chicago, June 20.—Fines amounting to $20,000 and costs aggregating $5,000 are to be paid by the International Harvester company for breaking the Arkansas law. The corporation admitted it violated the anti-trust laws of the state of Arkansas.

The amount of penalty was a compromise, and was arrived at in a conference at the Wesley hospital, where Attorney Henry Armistead is recovering from an operation. Mr. Armistead is the legal representative of the trust at Little Rock.

The settlement marked the termination of proceedings instituted in this city last Wednesday by Attorney Robert L. Rogers, of Arkansas, by which it was intended to take evidence before Lydie D. Taylor. The latter was appointed a special commissioner to hear testimony in the case.

The "exclusive contract clause" forbidding agents to handle anything but the agricultural implements manufactured by the trust formed the basis of the harvester prosecution. The company admitted that this clause was in their contracts. It also admitted that it existed in the contracts for some time after an extremely stringent anti-trust law was passed in Arkansas in March, 1905. The attorney general of the southern state had evidence that the trust had conducted business in Arkansas for 100 days in violation of the law—or, according to some evidence, 126 days.

There were two cases, one against the International Harvester company and the other against the International Harvester company of America. Each corporation, under the compromise, admitted to doing business in violation of the law for 50 days. The fine is $200 a day, making a total fine of $20,000.

Pope says to "make each day a critique on the last"—and if we could do this for six months in advertising a store we could get rich enough to "branch out" or retire.

It will soon be time to collect the city saloon licenses again.

Mr. Houser is still in hot water and the water itself is nearing the boiling point.

Davidson is touring the state in the Fish car building up his political fences in true gubernatorial style.

The record for June weddings will probably be kept up despite the lateness of the season this spring.

That question of the Philippine tariff measure has not yet been forgotten by the farmers and tobacco handlers.

Rock county had five graduates in the list of those to finish the courses at the state university this year.

The Milwaukee Free Press is receiving lots of court advertising just now that bids fair to cut down their profit column before it is over.

Madison escaped the horrible destruction promised it by the negro preacher and the people continue to enjoy themselves as usual.

There is nothing that so denotes the prosperity of a community as well kept lawns and walks and good roads. In this Janesville is deficient.

Did you ever notice how angry people become at undue prominence of their own misdeeds and yet how they enjoy reading of the misfortunes of others.

The subject of interurban connection to the north is spreading like wildfire throughout the city. Woo be to the councilman who opposes such a proposition when it is presented.

As has been foretold, Spooner is still the big man from Wisconsin in the senate and upon him Roosevelt depends when he wants legislation drawn up in right and proper form.

River traffic is on the increase. Some day some enterprising association will be formed to exploit the beauties of the river as a future summer resort and clean out the stumps from the channel.

Janesville is getting to be considered as the proper place for touring automobile parties to come to and even riding parties are said to be heading this way. Gypsies have long made Janesville a stopping place.

When that interurban road is in operation between Janesville and Madison, tapping the rich farming country in northern Rock county, the real value of the proposition will appeal to Janesville residents.

With Baker, Norcross and Hanson as the legislative candidates on the republican ticket and Whitehead still a member of the state senate, the good old county of Rock has four rocks to oppose any graft legislation that might arise.

Next week the sweet girl graduate who wrote of the wonders of ancient Rome will be tending the baby while mother does the washing, while the youth who declaimed in strident tones "The world is mine" will be hunting for a job. High education has its uses and abuses as ever.

Lying in the city hospital is a man who was brought there by the blow of a policeman's club. The policeman seeks a hearing before the police board to answer to the serious charges that are whispered against him. He should be given the opportunity of telling his side of the story before public judgment is passed upon his action. If guilty, dismissed; if not, completely cleared.

The need of a sidewalk inspector is illustrated by the condition of sidewalks in some of the best residence portions of the city. Where new walks are being laid in some places when patched out adjoining old ones they will resemble crazy quilts. Uniformity of the curb line and sidewalk line should be observed so as to make the city not a patchwork of individual rights.

TRADE WITH ASIA.
Trade of the United States with Asia, excepting Japan, China, and the Philippines, is large as to imports, but small as to exports. The trade with Japan, China, and the Philippines has been discussed in detail by the Department of Commerce and Labor through its bureau of statistics, showing that the United States supplied in 1905, 19 per cent of the imports of the Philippines, 20 per cent of those of China, and 21 per cent of those of Japan. To the other Asiatic countries the United States supplied but little more than one per cent of the imports, although taking large quantities of their exports.

The imports from all Asia except Japan, China, and Hongkong in the fiscal year 1905 were valued at $8 million dollars, and the exports to all Asia except Japan, China, and Hongkong were but 12 1/2 million dollars. From the British East Indies, under which term is included India, the Straits Settlements, and the East Indian islands under British control, the imports in 1905 were 63 1/2 million dollars, and the exports to all that area 7 1/2 millions. From the Dutch East Indies, by which is meant Java, Sumatra, and the other islands of the East Indian group belonging to the Netherlands government, the imports in 1905 were 18 1/2 million dollars, and the exports thereto only 1 1/2 million dollars. From Turkey in Asia the imports for 1905 were 6 million dollars, and the exports thereto less than one-half million dollars.

That the United States is exporting to the southern Asiatic countries but 12 1/2 million dollars' worth of merchandise, while importing 80 million dollars' worth from them, seems to be due largely to the fact that American goods are not offered in the form which the markets require; that sales to other oriental countries—Japan, China, and the Philippines—are large, is due to the fact that certain classes of American merchandise are suited to the wants and habits of those countries. In that section of Asia lying in a tropical or subtropical climate, articles for clothing, household life, agriculture, and transportation if manufactured for use in a temperate zone climate are unsuited to local customs, and the demand for articles of such universal adaptability, as railway supplies, machinery, other manufactures of iron and steel, manufactures of leather, mineral oils, and provisions is small because accidental methods regarding such materials have not yet been developed in any considerable degree except in certain sections of India which draw their supplies chiefly from the governing country, England. In northern China, however, climatic conditions render American cotton goods especially acceptable; in Japan the adoption of occidental methods of transportation, manufacturing, etc., has created a demand for occidental merchandise which is more conveniently drawn from the United States than from Europe; and in the Philippines, although tropical, the presence of large numbers of Americans both as dealers and consumers stimulates the consumption of merchandise from this country, and has brought the percentage of imports practically up to that which is supplied in the temperate zone countries of north China and Japan.

The principal articles imported into the United States from India are manufactures of jute, which in 1905 amounted to over 12 million dollars, and unmanufactured jute over 4 millions; hides and skins, about 10 million dollars, of which more than one-half was goat skins; shellac over 3 million dollars; leather and manufactures of leather over 1 million; vegetable oils about a quarter of a million; manganese ore a little less than a half million; tea over 1 million; potash and indigo a little less than a half million dollars each. The exports of British India in the same year were mineral oils 2 million dollars; manufactures of iron and steel a little more than 1 1/2 millions; manufactures of tobacco a little over three-quarters of a million, and cotton cloths a little less than a half million dollars.

From the Dutch East Indies the chief imports are sugar, which in 1905 amounted to 15 1/2 million dollars in value (in the past decade ranging from 24 millions downward); coffee, about 1 1/2 millions; spices, a quarter of a million; and gums, a quarter of a million dollars. Our exports to the Dutch East Indies in 1905 were: Mineral oils, a little less than 1 million dollars; manufactures of iron and steel, nearly a half million dollars; and naval stores, about $150,000.

From the Philippines the principal imports are manila hemp, the total value of that article imported from the islands in 1905 being 11 million dollars; sugar, 1 1/2 millions; and all other articles, less than $100,000. Of the total exports to the islands in 1905, iron and steel manufactures amounted to a little less than 1 1/2 million dollars; cotton cloths, three-quarters of a million; provisions, coal, and breadstuffs, about one-third of a million each; leather and manufactures thereof and wood and manufactures thereof, about a quarter of a million dollars each; and the remainder, miscellaneous articles, including cars and carriages, chemicals, clocks and watches, fruits and vegetables, malt and distilled liquors, papers, books, maps and engravings, and agricultural implements.

The Straits Settlements are a very important trading center of southern Asia, since they are a receiving and distributing point for a large part of the merchandise produced or consumed in India, Burma, the Malay Peninsula, Siam, French Indo-China, the East Indian islands, and parts of Australia. The total imports into the United States from the Straits Settlements amounted in 1905 to 16 million dollars, of which 10 millions was tin, in bars, blocks and pig-slices, 1 1/2 millions; gums, 1 1/2 millions; india rubber, 1 1/2 millions; and cabinet woods, a little over a half million dollars. The exports to the Straits Settlements amounted to 1 1/2 million dollars, of which about a half million was manufactures of iron and steel; mineral oil and provisions, a little less than a half million each; manufactures of tobacco, chiefly cigarettes, a little less than a quarter of a million dollars; and the remainder miscellaneous of leather, and clocks and watches.

From Turkey in Asia the imports last year were over 6 million dollars, of which wool was 1 1/2 million dollars, licorice root about 1 1/4 millions; opium a little over a half million, figs a little over a half million, hides and skins about one-third of a million, tobacco a quarter of a million, and the remainder included such articles as coffee, dates, raisins, carpets and rugs, etc. The exports to Turkey in Asia in the same year were valued at but $261,000, of which a little over $100,000 represented manufactures of iron and steel, a little over $100,000 cotton cloths, and the remainder included manufactures of wood, rum, agricultural implements, and mineral oils.

Don't Utterly Forget The Dewey. Chicago News: Let us not get so interested in muck-raking as to forget that we have a drydock wandering about somewhere in the Indian ocean.

Flip, Flop, Flip! Chicago Tribune: The regularity with which Mr. La Follette is turned down by his fellow senators does not prevent him from continuing to turn up.

Uncle Sage Much Relieved. Green Bay Gazette: Russell Sage probably gave a sign of relief when he heard that his uncle was dead. He had been paying him fifty dollars a year.

Quite Often The Case. Exchange: Generally the man who talks loudest of doing a thing for the sake of the principle involved, doesn't know whether it is spelled p-e-o-p-l-e.

Hadn't Heard The News. Chicago News: The wife of the governor of North Carolina has been poisoned by eating canned meats. Evidently they have not heard the news down there.

Iowa Rules Out Bird Bonnets. Sheboygan Journal: Wearing birds on hats will be prohibited by law in Iowa beginning with July 1. It's a law that might be successfully copied in Wisconsin.

Has The Figure Even. Racine Journal: It can be admitted without argument Bryan will carry Wisconsin, that is as to his nomination. As to his election the state will easily go 100,000 against him.

Not Enough Of A Score. Oshkosh Northwestern: It is not recorded, however, that any of the people of Madison have resolved to lead better lives on account of the scare caused by the predicted destruction of their city.

St. Louis "To The Front." St. Louis Globe Democrat: St. Louis gave $10,000,000 to the world's fair and has now voted $11,250,000 for the improvement of the city. "To the front" is the motto substantially backed up.

Logic Unanswerable. Exchange: Remarks the Fond du Lac Bulletin: "As this paper has laid on several occasions the automobile has come to stay." This at least seems to leave no room for an argument on this particular point.

Babel of Political Tenets. Oshkosh Northwestern: At the same time there is such a thing as having too many admirers, and Colonel Bryan will realize this when he arrives home in August and is met by two or more reception committees, each anxious to secure his approval of its particular brand of democracy.

Shakespeare One Of The First. Chicago Chronicle: The spelling reform brethren now claim William Shakespeare as one of their confreres and they are right. A man who consistently refused to spell his own name the same way twice in succession certainly must be credited with latitudinarian views in the matter of orthography.

Life, Debt, And Baer. Rockford Register-Gazette: Life Dowie continues to talk about a mysterious relationship existing between himself and Debt. Where Life made his mistake was in not forming a partnership with "Divine Right" Baer, to whom God gave the coal mines.

Divinities Of Print Shop. Marion Advertiser: There is said to be a printing office in Madison that is opened by prayer every morning. The Journal perhaps. This is a rare exception to the general rule, as from time immemorial it has been the custom for the printing office to be opened by the devil and closed by the sheriff.

Trifling With The Professor. Geo. Grassie in the Evening Wisconsin: Prof. George L. Collie of Beloit college in a recent address before the state archaeologists at Waukesha thought it unpleasant for Americans to contemplate the fact that the best existing collection of American relics is in England. That's a nice way to refer to our helmses.

Pursuit Of Honors Or Divorce. Chicago Record-Herald: It is again announced that C. M. Schwab intends to establish a residence in Nevada for the purpose of securing the seat that is now occupied by United States Senator Newlands. Isn't it lovely and handy that our rich people can find places far from home in which to establish residences for the purpose of getting their honors and divorces?

Togo Sighs For More War. Fond du Lac Bulletin: It is said that Togo, the famous Japanese admiral, is pining for another great war. He wants to get away from home where he can do some more commanding and bossing. At home Mrs. Togo bosses the admiral, holds the purse, brings up the children, is general manager, with no superior officer. No wonder Togo wants another war!

Suggestive Of A Local Episode. La Crosse Tribune: A man, drunk, died in the police station. A small confusion was found on his skull. A reputable physician said it was inconsequential. A relative spread the inference that he was murdered by the officers. An investigation proved that the man had been handled with the care usually bestowed upon a child, and that beyond question of doubt, he had died from heart failure, superinduced by alcoholism. And the police department took it as a matter of course, not even displaying annoyance at the circumstance. The moral is between the lines.

Explain, Manitowoc. Fond du Lac Commonwealth: The Manitowoc high school presents a novelty this year in a graduating class, all the members of which are boys. As a rule, from eighty to ninety per cent of the membership of the high school graduating classes are girls, and it is not unusual to find a class comprised entirely of girls. Manitowoc, therefore, presents at once a novelty and an object lesson, and should be called on to state how it managed to produce a graduating class, the boys of which constituted one hundred per cent.

Throws Light On Some Things. Green Bay Gazette: Horace A. J. Upham in his testimony in the libel suit instituted by Major Scofield of Oconto against the Milwaukee Free Press tells many interesting facts concerning that paper and its management. Among others he relates Isaac Stephenson's connection with the paper and in part at least of the money the Marinette lumberman has poured into the coffers. This testimony removes the last vestige of doubt, if any there be, that the Marinette millionaire has been the "angel" of the Free Press from the time of its first number. Many of the positions and utterances of that paper will now be more readily understood.

Inhumanity At Fontana. Evening Wisconsin: The three hundred Chicago girls of the Chicago Noonday Rest, who were to have an outing at Lake Geneva, have been debarred from that enjoyment. Members of the Fontana summer colony at Lake Geneva protested against them to the "owner" of the establishment, which was to have been leased for their accommodation, and for fear of business consequences, he has withdrawn from his engagement to sign the lease. The ground of the protest was that the girls of the Noonday rest work for their living. The protesting members of the Fontana colony, it is assumed, do not work for their living. It is a conspiracy of the butterflies against the bees.

A mean conspiracy, it looks like, and a foolish one, "discreditable in a high degree to those who hatched it. This is a country in which working for a living is accounted honorable by all who are not out of harmony with its traditions and the spirit of its institutions.

Why the Soil Is Thin.

An English proffer on a Scottish links hit the turf ten times for every once that he struck the ball. His cadillac ventured on a sarcastic remonstrance.

"He peety on auld Scotland, sir," said he. "She's suffered eueuch at the haunds o' yer countrymen in the past that ye sud' treat her sac sair the day. Hitt the ba' man, an' let the groun' alone."

"Contound Scotland!" shouted the exasperated golfer, flinging down his club in a rage. "It's just what Dr. Johnson described it—stone, water and a little earth."

"She the gachtor said that, did he?" inquired the caddie.

"He did. And he was a very wise man, let me tell you," snapped the Englishman.

"I believe ye," retorted the caddie. "Nae doot the doctor was a vera wise mon, for there is muckle o' stane an' water in Scotland—or mountains an' lochs that ye come sae far to see, an' it's a sair truth that the soil is no vera deep. You see, there's sic a number o' English bodies come to Scotland to play gowf!"

Like Mother's. "I plead for the soft, crumbly, well-shortened pie," said Dr. Burton Rogers, a federal meat inspector, in an address at the Chicago Tuberculosis Institute recently. "Too often it has been condemned unjustly. I do not for one single moment believe that it is harmful for children."

FIELD GLASSES FOR ARMY.

An Accessory That is as Necessary as Any Other Part of the Equipment.

A French military journal has been pointing out that one of the principal requisites for a well equipped officer is a powerful pair of field glasses. In these days of long range guns and smokeless powder there cannot be two opinions, says a London Globe writer, as to the value of an accessory which will enable a general to see without being seen himself or exposing his troops to the view of the opposing forces.

The lesson taught us by the Boers and the Japanese in recent campaigns seems to be: Use all your art in finding out—in seeing, in a word—the movements of the enemy, while remaining yourself invisible, and one of the most useful aids in this direction is a powerful pair of field glasses. According to the journal I have referred to the French officer and non-commissioned officer are expected to provide their own field glasses with the result that in most cases they are of inferior quality and the officer's judgment on them usually is: "I can see as well with my own eyes." But if the war office realized the value of the field glass in war it would be reckoned as indispensable as the service revolver, and like that weapon would be purchased wholesale by the government and sold to officers at cost price, payable in installments.

Switzerland, we are reminded, long ago discovered the value of the field glass; the Swiss artillery non-commissioned officers have always had good glasses. These are now about to be taken from them and given to the infantry officers, and in their place more powerful glasses will be supplied to the artillery.

BURNING A JUJU HOUSE.

Chamber of Horrors in the Village of Savage Natives of Nigeria.

Some interesting—if ghastly—details have lately reached England, writes a correspondent of the Graphic, as to the burning of a juju house in the Andoni country of southern Nigeria, where both human sacrifices and cannibalism have until quite recently been rampant. On an appointed day the chiefs of Bonny and Opobo, who have some sort of control of the Andoni tribe, were called together and informed by the British resident that these nefarious practices must be put a stop to. After much hesitation the principal chief led the way to the center of the village, where a ghastly sight presented itself: The juju house was literally covered with human skulls, even the gable ends and veranda posts bearing these horrible trophies. Some were comparatively fresh, clearly showing that human sacrifices were still practiced. In all upward of 2,000 were counted. The order was given to burn the house, but no native dared execute the command, so that at last the British resident himself set fire to this chamber of horrors. As the flames leapt up to the sky the greatest excitement prevailed, and the terrified heathen stood with bated breath. Among the articles which perished was an historical drum, fashioned entirely out of human skin, and only beaten at the moment when the executioner struck off the head of some hapless victim.

Quaint Customs in Abyssinia. Quaint customs prevail in these parts of Abyssinia. When a father is getting on in years the son bids him climb a tree and jump down from the branches. If the old man staggers on landing, the son spears him on the spot; his usefulness is over. One tribe has a custom of sewing chance visitors up in green hides and leaving them to be killed by the contraction of the skins; with another the orthodox way of dealing with strangers was to tie them in a bundle and roll them over a precipice.

Mrs. JENNIE MURRAY

of Evansville, and her daughter drove 15 miles to Janesville today to secure the services of Dr. F. T. Richards, who they had heard could extract teeth PAINLESSLY.

Mrs. Murray, in speaking to her son, said, "I've had them all out (nine in number) and they DIDN'T HURT A BIT."

He could hardly believe it, but she soberly affirmed that Dr. Richards did the best of any dentist she ever had work for her.

The daughter also had him work for her and she also said that he DIDN'T HURT.

As the old settler said, "Where there's smoke there must be some fire."

Try him yourself for your next dentistry.

STROLLING ROMANY UNWELCOME VISITOR

Wander Through the Country Leaving Their Trail Behind Them Everywhere.

Since early spring Janesville has been visited by one party of gypsies after another. They do not stop long, just long enough to curse the police and citizens and move on. Janesville has been worked in the past and these migrating visitors learn with a short acquaintance that it is best to give it a wide berth. Down in Spring Brook is their favorite camping place and they sometimes stop here for a day or two, to rest both animals and people before continuing their wanderings. Not all the parties are the genuine article, the true wandering Romany, but this afternoon a dozen wagons with the genuine article on board passed through the street bound southward.

The presence of the strange, foreign band evoked many questions from bystanders as to their nationality. Their true name is Rom, generally being called Romany, and historians have tried in vain to trace their origin, though generally accredited to Egypt or Asia Minor, there being traces of Armenian and Persian in the genuine tribes. They are scattered over the world, coming and going like the wandering Jew, retaining a smattering of every language, and a patois which serves them in common, and is no language at all. To the outside world they present characteristics strange and unlovable. They are natural vagrants, living from hand to mouth, at war with all mankind, plundering where they may without being caught, beguiling all with their pretense of a supernatural knowledge of the past and future.

The men are horse traders, the women fortune tellers for the most part, telling all who cross their itching hands with silver, from greasy cards or the palm. They will beg anything, but take their fancy, wanting anything that has color, and wearing weird combinations of clothing like veritable blanket Indians. Could the greasy folds of their shawls be searched many an interesting trinket would be found, and most of them wear about their necks strings of coins which would entrance a numismatist.

Popular Revival Songs.
It is said that Mr. Alexander's revival songs are now as popular in England as Mr. Sankey's were a generation ago. The "Glory" song—an especial favorite—has appeared in print about 17,000,000 times in three years. The London dailies even publish the words and music.

ELECTRIC FANS ARE CAUSES OF A COLD

Doctors Find Seasonable Trouble At This Time of Year.

About now physicians are beginning to treat "electric fan colds." For already the few days of intense heat made it needful to start the little fans whirling, and woe unto those who sat in the immediate draught thereof.

While the fan is one of the few things that make life bearable in hot weather, it is, according to physicians, a much abused convenience. Placed where it will stir up the air in the room without blowing directly upon you, it is a good thing. But stood on a shelf where it blows directly down on head or neck, or where it fans violently on throat or chest, it is a bad thing, and one of the most potent causes of hot weather colds, bronchial and catarrhal troubles.

The cold air blowing on the heated surface of the body dries up the pores and sends the blood hastily inward, creating a physical condition that in nine cases out of ten brings on a severe cold, either in the head, bronchial tubes or lungs.

At least so the doctors say, and having the colds to cure they ought to know.

I HAVE a problem to solve. I write an article about it for the reason that there are others troubled with it, and I believe that a number of people might solve it together where each would fail by himself.

In carrying out my purpose I am obliged to discuss what the world would call my "private affairs." So I explain at the outset that I am a socialist and consider that the private affairs of most individuals constitute the most important public affair now existing. I discuss my own because they are typical and because they happen to be the ones with which I am most familiar.

The problem is the one commonly known as the "servant problem." I invite you to consider the situation of a man who is possessed of a small family and a small income and wishes to be free to turn his attention to intellectual pursuits.

Ideal Place to Rear a Child.

For the past two years we have lived upon a farm, and a farm is the ideal place to bring up a child, you have read in the companions. At the outset a lawyer for compensation seized our David, and he found his way to a neighbor and played with a little girl who stuttered. After a week or two we found that he was stuttering, too, and stopped the visits, but too late, and now, for all I know, he may continue to say every word three times over as long as he lives. And when he was not learning to stutter he was up in the pear orchard stuffing himself or behind the house swimming the baby ducks and his shoes in the wash tub or out in the kitchen missing an pudding of pepper crouts, candlesticks, and milk. So it was found necessary to get some one to take care of him, so little by little the problem has arisen, for you must understand that it is not merely a question of finding a governess or kindergarten expert; it is a question of setting up and keeping under way a home for him, and it is a question of an establishment of servants.

The mistake was in the beginning—you say—if you object to servants you ought never to have married. But is a man to be denied the privilege of parenthood just because he happens to possess an intellect? And is it for the best interests of the race that its future generations should be furnished exclusively by the ignorant and callous? And if authors, artists, scientists and philosophers are to reproduce their kind what is to be done? Shall they have to marry their housekeepers? I have made many sacrifices for my art, but I confess that that one would have staggered me.

Of course we can do it if we must. We can stick to the farm and raise all our own food and keep our health and do it all at moderate expense, but how pitiful it is! We cannot travel, we can never hear any music or attend the theater, we can have only books and our own thoughts winter and summer, year in and year out. We cannot send our child to a kindergarten, to school; he can never be with other children. Can a mere writer of original books afford a house in the city or city prices for his family? And of course we cannot keep a wife awake by a boarding house or apartment. No, we must have our own home and in the country, so our thoughts come back from every flight. Let us make one desperate effort to try to get good servants and then pay them anything and keep them, and then when we get the machine running let us get a little house near by and keep it for our own and allow no one there and go and live there and eat cold food and do our own work whenever we wish to be alone with our thoughts.

That was our plan until I took the resolution to write this article. There are hundreds and even thousands in exactly the same plight. I said, And why should they all sink back and reconcile themselves to the monstrous absurdities of isolated housekeeping?

As a preliminary to explaining what I wish to propose I shall state one thing that I do not propose. I am not dreaming any sort of self-supporting colony, to set a new ideal and realize the co-operative commonwealth. What I am making here is a simple business proposition for an association of people who may possess a moderate income to secure the benefits of the application of the machine process to their domestic affairs.

Living Like a Fendal Baron.

Here am I, on my little farm living as my ancestors lived, like a fendal baron. I have my little castle and my retainers and dependents to attend me, and we practice a hundred different trades—the trade of serving meals and the trade of cleaning dishes, the trade of washing and brooding clothes, of killing and dressing meat, of churning butter, of baking bread, of preparing meat, of raising chickens, of cutting wood, of preserving fruit, of heating a house, of decorating rooms, of training children and of writing books—and all these crowded into one establishment, in close proximity and all jarring and clashing with each other and all carried on in the most primitive and barbarous fashion upon a small scale and by unskilled hand labor. It takes a hundred cooks to prepare a hundred meals badly, while twenty cooks could prepare one meal for a hundred families and do it perfectly. It costs $100,000 to build and equip a hundred kitchens; it would cost only $5,000 to build one kitchen. It takes a hundred churns and a hundred churning backs to make a thousand pounds of butter; it would take only one machine and a man to read it to make the same thousand pounds, and the cost of making it would be cut 99 per cent. But of course, you cannot have large butter-making except it is done for profit, and that means adulteration and poisoning. It takes a hundred ignorant nursemaids to take care of the children of a hundred families and develop every kind of ugliness and badness in them. It would take only twenty or thirty trained nurses and kindergarten teachers to take care of them co-operatively and bring them up according to the teachings of science.

One could show this same thing in a thousand different forms if it were necessary, but it has all been reasoned out in Charlotte Perkins Gilman's book, "The Home," and any one to whom the idea is new may read it there. The purpose of this paper is not to persuade any one, but to move to action those already persuaded. To such I offer my co-operation.

Near to New York.

The following embodies my own conception of what such a "home colony" should be. It would be located within an hour of New York and would have 100 families and 500 or 400 acres of land, healthfully located, near some body of water and as unspoiled by the hand of man as possible. It should have an abundant water supply and a filtering plant, an electric light and power plant and a large garden and farm, raising its own stock, meat, poultry, fruit and vegetables and canning the last for winter use. It should be administered by a board of directors democratically elected. For the management of its various departments salaried experts should be employed, machinery should be installed wherever it could be made to pay, and the best modern methods should be applied in every industry. All its purchases should be in bulk and tested for quality, and so far as the preparation and serving of food is concerned the processes should be kept as aseptic as a surgical operation.

The buildings of this home colony should be of frame at the outset, of simple and expressive design, of structure exactly adapted to its specific purpose. The buildings should be conveniently grouped—those for the children in one place, those for cooking and eating in another, those for reading, for music and social intercourse, for recreation and exercise in still other places. The greater part of the land would of course be given up to farm and woodland and to the individual dwellings of the families. The ground available for this latter purpose should be divided into lots, priced according to size and location and leased to stockholders for long terms. Each would erect his own home, according to his own taste—a home of course of a kind hitherto unknown, with no provision for the cooking of food or the training of children or other trades and professions. It would be a place where the family met, to rest and play and sleep. It might be large or small, anything that the owner chose to make it. My own would be a four or five room cottage of rustic design, and it would cost from $600 to $800. Besides these there should be apartment buildings, owned by the colony and dormitories with rooms for single men and women.

As to the public buildings, there should be a large and beautiful dining hall and a modern, scientifically constructed kitchen. There should be separate tables for each family or for congenial groups of people. The service should be unexceptionable, the food simple, but perfect in quality and preparation. There should be a vegetarian service for those who prefer the cheaper mode of life, and the charge for board should be based upon the cost of the service. I will probably be laughed at, but I believe that granting the land, horses and machinery, buildings, equipment and capital, the members of such a colony as I describe could be provided with perfect service and an abundance of food of the best quality at a total cost of $100 a year per person.

A Children's Heaven.

So much for the co-operative preparation of food. And now for the caring for children. There should be two separate establishments, one for infants, who like to sleep, and one for children, who like to run and shout. Both should be scientifically constructed and ventilated and kept as clean as an up to date hospital. The food should be prepared under the general direction of a physician. No building for children should be over two stories high, and the upper windows should be beyond the reach of children. No matches or exposed fire should be permitted, and there should be a night watchman, fire extinguishers and an automatic sprinkling apparatus. These establishments should be under the supervision of a board of women directors, and the actual work of caring for the children, washing, dressing and feeding them, playing with them and teaching them, should be done by trained nurses and kindergarten teachers who live in the colony as the friends and social equals of its members. In other words, it is my idea that the caring for children should be recognized as a profession and that servants should have nothing to do with it. It is my idea that it should be done in a place built for the purpose, with floors for babies to crawl where there is no dirt for them to eat with playgrounds for children, where there are no stoves and no boiling water, no staircases and wells, no cats and dogs, no workbenches, lamps, pianos, sewing machines, jam closets, inkstands and authors' writing tables. Instead there should be sleeping rooms and bedrooms and sun parlors for nursing mothers, a separate building for the sick, kindergarten rooms and indoor playgrounds for bad weather, and a big all outdoors romping ground, with sunny places and shady places, swings, rocking horses, sand piles and all other accessories of a children's heaven.

Every member of the community I propose would have his own home, to which he would invite his personal friends as he chose, and the other members of the community he would meet in the same way that he meets acquaintances in business and politics, in theaters, restaurants and clubs. In a colony of a hundred families there ought to be persons of every kind of inclination, and it would not be in the least necessary for any one to associate with those who are not congenial. This spirit, if wisely and earnestly cultivated, would solve the "servant problem" for the colony and solve the health problem for its members as well.

In this community every member would be credited for the time he worked, and it ought to become the custom for the men to help with the harvests and the women with the preserving of fruit and the children with the berry picking and the weeding of the gardens. I have no doubt that there are thousands of young men and women in New York city, students of art and music and the professions, who would be glad of a chance to earn their way in a community where class feeling did not make labor degrading. I appreciate the difficulties in the way of such a project, the chances at present against a coal heaver being a socially possible person, and I am not insisting that the day laborers should share in the privileges of the community. But I do think that this should certainly be the case with those whom we select to care for and teach our children and also, if possible, with those whom we permit to prepare and serve our food. If I am not willing to shake a man's hand or sit next to him in a reading room I do not seem to be willing to eat what he has cooked.

Building for Social Purposes.

There would be a laundry in the colony, a boat, livery and bath houses, a drug store, a general store, a refreshment room. There would, of course, be a complete telephone service, electric lights and hot water or electric heating throughout the buildings. There would be a resident physician, and perhaps before long teachers of music and languages, night and day, worth while to join the colony. There would, of course, be a building for social purposes, with large piazzas for summer and sun parlors for winter. There would be a hall for lectures, concerts, theatricals and dancing. There would be a reading room and a circulating library of periodicals and recent books. It is your custom to spend, say, $50 or $100 a year for those, and you could achieve your purpose co-operatively for a fifth of the expense. There would be a gymnasium and a swimming pool and, of course, tennis and croquet and baseball grounds. There would be stages to meet all trains and closed conveyances to carry people to and from the dining hall in bad weather. There would be a livery stable, at which you could hire or keep a rig for about one-fourth what it would cost you elsewhere.

I think that such a community should be planned for the accommodation of a certain number of members and the necessary working force and should be limited to these. Not all of the members need be stockholders, of course. Others might be admitted to the benefits of the association, but in that case the stock should pay dividends, and in any case the management of the corporation would have to be vested exclusively in the stockholders. For the administration of the various industries there would have to be a superintendent, a man of first class executive ability, responsible to the board of directors, and there would be a corps of managers of departments, each a thoroughly experienced man, a manager of the farm and stables, of the truck and flower gardens, of the purchasing department and the co-operative store, of the catering department, of the buildings and grounds, the power plant and the heating department. How many such men there should be and what they should be paid, how many employees of all sorts would be necessary, is one of the questions upon which expert advice is needed. I am willing to get a complete set of figures for the enterprise I have outlined, provided that I hear from a sufficient number of people to make it worth while. I am perfectly and seriously in earnest about the matter, willing to give my time to it, for years if need be. I hope to hear from 100 or 200 people who are interested. I am willing to undertake the enterprise with as few as twenty families. I wish to hear not merely from those who will invest as stockholders, but also from those who will rent or build homes from men and women who are willing to contribute their labor as waiters, cooks, nurses, teachers or managers, and from persons having business experience who would like to help me in working out this plan.

REAFFIRM LOYALTY TO REPUBLICANISM

TRIBUTE TO FREMONT, LINCOLN AND ROOSEVELT.

HOLD TARIFF TO BE SACRED

National League of Republican Clubs Passes Resolutions Indorsing
McKinley's Position on Protection of Industries.

Philadelphia, June 20.—Reaffirming allegiance to the principles of the Republican party and condemning combinations in restraint of trade, the National League of Republican Clubs Tuesday ended its convention.

The resolutions adopted by the convention are in part as follows: "We pay tribute to our great leaders from our first standard bearer, John C. Fremont, and Abraham Lincoln, the first Republican president, to Theodore Roosevelt, our present leader, the world's first citizen, who, through his rugged honesty, his persistent determination, his unflinching courage and his demand for a square deal for every person and every interest, has gained not only the respect and love of his fellow countrymen, but the esteem and admiration of all mankind."

Loyal to Tariff.

"We indorse the sentiment of William McKinley, that the principle of a protective tariff is sacred, but that schedules should be changed when conditions of industry, commerce and finance demand, and not till then."

"We emphasize the results of the operation of the Dingley tariff, which is giving us a surplus of revenue, unparalleled activity in our factories, forests and mines; profitable prices for the products of our farms; greater bank clearings and relatively less failures than ever before; a continually larger volume of employment at higher wages, resulting in unprecedented consumption of not only the necessities but comforts, conveniences and luxuries of life, augmented with larger savings and investments than have previously been recorded in our history."

"We approve of the action of the present congress in carrying out the recommendations of President Roosevelt by more advanced legislation than has been given us in a single session since the days of the civil war."

Proud of Party Record.

"We have a just pride in our party's record in its settlement of the currency question, through the adoption of the gold standard; in the establishment and development of the rural free delivery system now extended to more than 30,000 routes and 8,000,000 homes; in the progress made in opening our arid lands to cultivation through irrigation; in the well begun work of connecting ocean and ocean with an isthmian canal; in the many laws looking to the welfare of labor and in the completed or pending legislation providing for equitable railroad regulation; in interstate commerce; for better inspection of all food products; for free alcohol for all food products; for the American merchant marine and many other important measures which have been or are to be considered."

"We are opposed to all illegal combinations in restraint of trade, whereby the interests of either producers or consumers are injured or whereby, through monopoly prices and prices of products are controlled at the expense of the masses. We wage no war on capital or corporations as such, but we ask for equity and justice to all by and for all."

Oppose Vote Suppression.

"We are opposed to inequality which permits one-twelfth of the voters of the country to wield one-quarter of the national legislative power. The suppression and denial of suffrage demands the reduction of the power so usurped and the denial of suffrage should never be rewarded with political preferment. The democracy of all 48 states should be preserved, and its integrity and political rights secured to every qualified citizen, white or black, who is capable and willing to assert his political manhood. The political party that profits by the suppression of the ballot is not to be trusted with the making, or administration of the nation's laws."

"We reiterate the demand of our last national platform that our Republican majority in congress should courageously carry out the principles and pledges of the party and enact such legislation as will make all the constitutional amendments absolutely and finally effective."

"We ask for immediate legislation looking to the establishment of a parcels post and postal currency or notes to facilitate trade through orders by mail."

Bank Embezzler Sentenced.

The Ohio supreme court has refused to consider the appeal of Murderer Hammel of Dayton, who is condemned to die in the electric chair June 28.

CONTAGIOUS BLOOD POISON HUMILIATING—VILE—DESTRUCTIVE

The very name, Contagious Blood Poison, suggests contamination and dread. It is the worst disease the world has ever known; responsible for more unhappiness and sorrow than all others combined. Nobody knows anything about the origin of this loathsome trouble, but as far back as history goes it has been regarded the greatest curse of mankind.

No part of the body is beyond the reach of this powerful poison. No matter how pure the blood may be, when the virus of Contagious Blood Poison enters, the entire circulation becomes corrupted, the humiliating symptoms begin to appear, and the sufferer finds himself diseased from head to foot with the vilest and most destructive of all poisons. Usually the first symptom is a small sore or ulcer, so insignificant that it rarely ever excites suspicion, but in a short while the skin breaks out in a red rash, the glands of the groin swell, the throat and mouth ulcerate, the hair and eye-brows come out, and often the body is covered with copper-colored spots, pustular eruptions and sores.

There is hardly any limit to the ravages of Contagious Blood Poison; if it is not driven from the blood it affects the nerves, attacks the bones, and in extreme cases causes tumors to form on the brain, producing insanity and death. No other disease is so highly contagious; many an innocent person has become infected by using the same toilet articles, handling the clothing, by a friendly handshake or the kiss of affection from one afflicted. But no matter how the disease is contracted, the sufferer feels the humiliation and degradation that accompany the vile disorder.

Mercury and Potash are commonly used in the treatment of Contagious Blood Poison, but these minerals cannot cure the disease—they merely mask it in the system. All external evidences may disappear for awhile, but the treacherous poison is at work on the internal members and tissues, and when these minerals are left off the disease returns worse than before, because the entire system has been weakened and damaged by the strong action of the Mercury and Potash. There is but one, certain, reliable cure for Contagious Blood Poison, and that is S. S. S., the great vegetable blood purifier. It attacks the disease in the right way by going down into the blood, neutralizing and forcing out every particle of the poison. It makes the blood pure and rich, strengthens the different parts of the body, tones up the system, and cures this humiliating and destructive disorder permanently.

The improvement commences as soon as the patient gets under the influence of S. S. S. and continues until every vestige of the poison is driven from the blood and the sufferer is completely restored to health. S. S. S. is not an experiment; it is a success. It has cured thousands of cases of Contagious Blood Poison, many of which had given the Mercury and Potash treatment, Hot Springs, etc., a thorough trial, and had almost despaired of ever being well again. S. S. S. is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, and does not injure the system in the least. We offer a reward of $1,000 for proof that it contains a particle of mineral of any kind. If you are suffering with this despicable and debasing disease, get it out of your blood with S. S. S. before it does further damage. We will gladly send our book with instructions for self-treatment and any medical advice, without charge, to all who write.

CAUSAGE FACTORY CLOSED

Health Inspectors at Newark, N. J., Raid Meat Grinder's Shop and Confiscate Contents.

Newark, N. J., June 20.—City health inspectors Tuesday confiscated the contents of Harry Rosenthal's sausage establishment, a small room in a Jones street leather factory. They claim to have found the stenosis, machinery and the room in general reeking with filth and vermin.

Four baskets of meat, said to have the appearance of scraps picked up from the floors of butcher shops—dirt and sawdust being present in abundance—were seized by the inspectors, together with other scraps of meat which were said to be decaying in the sausage making machines.

Preservative solutions and coloring matter also were taken by the authorities.

Rosenthal declared that for five months he had worked under an arrangement with a number of butchers who furnished the materials to be ground into sausages. He said he received four dollars for every 100 pounds turned out. The butchers sold the product, he said, for 12 cents a pound.

HOUSE ADOPTS INSPECTION

Revised Amendment Has Been Perfected to Meet the Wishes of the President.

Washington, June 20.—With practical unanimity the house Tuesday adopted the substitute amendment for the beverage amendment to the agricultural appropriation bill relating to meat inspection, the objectionable feature of former amendments being eliminated and the amendment perfected to meet the wishes of the president.

An effort was made to extend the time of debate, but Mr. Wadsworth, chairman of the committee on agriculture, desiring to get the bill into conference as soon as possible, objected to the granting of additional time, although nearly an hour was consumed in the explanation and debate upon the measure.

After the adoption of the amendment the bill was sent to conference, the conferees being Mr. Wadsworth, Mr. Scott (Kan.) and Mr. Lamb (Va.).

Dear Sirs:—I had a friend who had a bad case of Contagious Blood Poison and was in a terrible condition. He tried all the medicines he could hear of, but nothing did him any good. He went to Hot Springs, but it was like the other treatments he had used, and he was in despair of a cure when he heard of S. S. S. After taking it for awhile the sores all healed, his hair stopped falling out, and, continuing with it, he soon found himself cured entirely of this hideous disease. JOHN LESLIE, Rookford, Ill. 719 W. State St.

I was afflicted with Blood Poison, and the best doctors did me no good, though I took their treatment faithfully. In fact I seemed to get worse all the while. I took almost every so-called blood remedy, but they did not seem to reach the disease, and had no effect whatever. I was disheartened, for it seemed that I would never be cured. At the advice of a friend I then took S. S. S. and began to improve. I continued the medicine, and it cured me completely. W. R. NEWMAN, Hamlet, N. C.

Regimental Reunions and Forty-third Anniversary Battle Chickamauga

Chattanooga, September 18-20, 1906.

On September 18, 1906, will occur the forty-third anniversary of the Battle of Chickamauga. It is proposed to celebrate this memorable event with a reunion of the various regiments that participated in this memorable battle and the various battles fought around Chattanooga. This reunion will be held at Chattanooga, National Park, September 18-19 and 20, and the present indications are that it will be the largest and most notable gathering ever held in the South. On the above dates, the remnants from the armies of twelve states, comprising the following: Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri, Kansas and Kentucky, will assemble, many of the first and last time since they marched from their blood-stained fields, forty-three years ago.

Here is one of the greatest opportunities for the education of the youth. Don't fail to take your children and show them historic Chattanooga, with all its historical connections. It is the opportunity of a lifetime. Go and see the old war generals and other officers point out the places of interest on the battlefield; let them show you and explain, in person, the markers erected on the battlefield showing the positions of the opposing armies at the time of battle. It will not be long until none will be left to do this noble work. It will be many years, if ever again, that such an opportunity will present itself. See that your tickets read via the Louisville & Nashville R. R., the Battlefield Route. Call on your nearest railroad agent for rates, and advertising matter pertaining to the reunion, or write nearest representative of the Louisville & Nashville R. R.

Disciplined Army of Fish.

There is a species of mullet fish found among the coral islands of the Pacific which swims about in armies, with officers and van and rear guard. Each army is also provided with scouts above and below. When danger threatens from above, the upper scouts plunge down; if the danger is from below, the lower scouts dart upward, and thus warn the army.

A FOOL FOR LOVE

By FRANCIS LYNDE

AUTHOR OF "THE CRAFTERS," ETC.

(Copyright, 1906, by J. P. Lippincott Co.)

"Miss Virginia was mopey. Dislike to him might be, and an unbumbled man of the world as well; but, to use Reverend Billy's phrase, she could make him 'sit up'."

"I beg yours, I'm sure," she said, demurely. "I didn't know it was a craft society."

Winton looked across the aisle to the table where the technologist was sitting opposite a square-shouldered, ruddy-faced gentleman with fiery eyes and a white mustache, and shook a figurative fist.

"I'd like to know what Adams has been telling you," he said. "Sketching in the mountains in midwinter? That would be decidedly original, to say the least of it. And I think I have never done an original thing in all my life."

For a single instant the brown eyes looked their pity for him; gentle pity it was, of the kind that mounting souls bestow upon the stagnant. But the subconscious lover in Winton made it personal to him, and it was the lover who spoke when he went on.

"That is a damaging admission, is it not? I am sorry to have to make it—to have to confirm your poor opinion of me."

"Did I say anything like that?" she protested.

"Not in words; but your eyes said it, and I know you have been thinking it all along. Don't ask me how I know it? I couldn't explain it if I should try. But you have been pitying me, in a way—you know you have."

The brown eyes were downcast. Frank and free-hearted after her kind as she was, Virginia Carteret was finding it a new and singular experience to have a man tell her baldly at their first meeting that he had read her inmost thought of him. Yet she would not flinch or go back.

"There is so much to be done in the world, and so few to do the work," she pleaded in extenuation.

"And Adams has told you that I am not one of the few? It is true enough to hurt."

She looked him fairly in the eyes. "What is lacking, Mr. Winton—the spur?"

"Possibly," he rejoined. "There is no one near enough to care, or to say, 'Well done!'"

"How can you tell?" she questioned, musingly. "It is not always permitted to us to hear the plaudits or the hisses—happily, I think. Yet there are always those standing by who are ready to cry, 'to triumph!' and mean it, when one approves himself a good soldier."

The coffee had been served, and Winton sat, thoughtfully stirring the lump of sugar in his cup. Miss Carteret was not having a monopoly of the new experiences. For instance, it had never before happened to John Winton to have a woman, young, charming, and altogether lovable, read him a lesson out of the book of the overcomers.

He smiled inwardly and wondered what she would say if she could know to what battle-field the drumming wheels of the "Limited" were speeding him. Would she be loyal to her mentorship and tell him he must win, at whatever the cost to Mr. Somerville Darrah and his business associates? Or would she, woman-like, be her uncle's partisan and write one, John Winton down in her blackest book for daring to oppose the Rajah?

He assured himself it would make no jot of difference if he knew. He had a thing to do, and he was purposed to do it strenuously, inflexibly. Yet in the inmost chamber of his heart, where the barbarous ego stands unabashed and isolate and recklessly contempts of the moralities minor and major he saw the birth of an influence which must henceforth be despotically reckoned with.

Given a name, this new-born factor was love; love barely awakened, and yet no more than a masterful desire to stand well in the eye of one woman. None the less, he saw the possibilities; that a time might come when this woman would have the power to intervene; would make him hold his hand in the business affair at the very moment, mayhap, when he should strike the hardest.

It was a rather unnerving thought, and when he considered it he was glad that their ways, coinciding for the moment, would presently go apart, leaving him free to do battle as an honest soldier in any cause must.

The Rosemary party was rising, and Winton rose, too, folding the seat for Miss Virginia and reaching her wrap from the rack.

"I am glad to have met you," she said, giving him the tip of her fingers and going back to the conventionalities as if they had never been ignored.

But the sincerity in Winton's reply transcended the conventional form of it.

"Indeed, the pleasure has been wholly mine, I assure you. I hope the future will be kind to me and let me see more of you."

"Who knows?" she rejoined, smiling at him level-eyed. "The world has been steadily growing smaller since Shakespeare called it 'narrow.'"

He caught quickly at the straw of hope. "Then we need not say goodbye?"

"No; let it be auf wiedersehen," she said; and he stood aside to let her join her party.

SIMPLE FUNERAL FOR GOV. PATTISON

WISHES OF LATE EXECUTIVE'S FAMILY RESPECTED.

TRIBUTE FROM SUCCESSOR

Gov. Harris in His First Proclamation
Urges Citizens of Ohio to Cease
Work During Burial Ceremonies.

Cincinnati, June 20.—John M. Pattison, chosen chief executive of Ohio on a Democratic ticket, lies dead at his home in Milford, and Andrew L. Harris, elected lieutenant governor as a Republican, has under the state constitution assumed the responsible duties of governor.

Messages of condolence have come to the stricken home of the late governor from all sections of the country.

As a fitting tribute to their late chief executive a cessation from all work in the state during the hours of the funeral was recommended in the first proclamation of Gov. Harris, which was issued Tuesday afternoon. In the course of his proclamation he says:

Tribute to the Dead.

"The people of Ohio have been greatly bereaved by the death of their governor, John M. Pattison. It is appropriate that people so afflicted, while bowing in humble submission to the dispensation of Providence, should show their sense of loss by some general recognition of the public value and private worth of him who has been taken from them. Gov. Pattison served his country in war and in peace. He was a man of high ideals and of singular fidelity to all public trusts, and his memory deserves the sincere tribute of all his fellow citizens.

"I therefore proclaim to the people of Ohio the duty of cessation from their usual avocations and closing their several places of business during the hours from two until four o'clock on next Thursday afternoon, while the funeral services are in progress in appropriate observance thereof."

Funeral Will Be Simple.

In deference to the wishes of the family, and in accordance with the known views of Mr. Pattison, the funeral will be very simple and his body will be at once laid to rest in the cemetery among the hills of Clermont county.

Juryman's Idea.

A jurymen went to sleep the other day during the closing speech of one of the counsel in the case in an English court. The judge had him awakened and sternly rebuked him. "My lord," said the juror, "I was under the impression that I was sworn to give a verdict according to the evidence, not according to the speeches."
